Topic: Virtual Planning, Retreat Ideas, & Sample Agendas

With our new potential virtual reality, sharing ideas on planning and what a program day will actually look like is a challenge. To help, TACL has gathered some ideas on planning, and actual program Agendas from community leadership programs in Tennessee and other states to give you more ideas to consider as you move forward.

SAMPLE VIRTUAL OPENING RETREAT IDEAS

- Icebreaker Choose among "intro., tricky, and tough" questions: https://icebreaker.range.co/difficulty.
- https://training-wheels.com/resources/who-we-are/ online games. Michelle Cummins with Training Wheels has an online games database.
- Name Game Each person introduces themselves and every person who came before them in the circle, they give their name and one thing they enjoy doing along with a motion to represent it. (ex. I'm Mary Kay and I like to run-job in place). The last person has to introduce everyone all the way back. This is like the "yarn" game many of us do on retreats.
